AGENDA
August 23, 2011

Due to a lack of formal action items, this meeting is canceled.

WORKSHOP AGENDA

7:00 p.m.

This workshop is open to the public.

1. Workshop: Revisiting front porches

In recent years several homeowners have expressed an interest in adding these features to the fronts of their home. However, most houses are built at or close to the front setback line, and Falcon Heights city code does not allow most front porches as encroachments into front setback. The City Council has adopted as one of its 2011 goals a re-consideration of front porches as allowed encroachments in single-family residential neighborhoods. The Council directed staff to submit the topic to the Planning Commission for study.

Commissioners will begin informal discussion of the issue in workshop format, with the goal of reporting back to the Council on whether the issue should be taken up formally at this time. Discussion may include neighborhood character, Falcon Heights history and architecture, functionality, balancing open space with built space and related topics.

If you have a disability and need accommodation in order to attend this meeting, please notify City Hall 48 hours in advance between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at 651-792-7600. We will be happy to help.

The City That Soars!

REQUEST FOR PLANNING COMMISSION ACTION

Meeting Date	August 23, 2011
Agenda Item	Workshop 1
Title	Preliminary discussion on front porches in Falcon Heights
Submitted By	Deborah Jones, Staff Liaison

Description	Informal preliminary discussion on whether the City of Falcon Heights should revisit the zoning ordinance that severely restricts the addition of front porches on existing homes.
Background	In this year's goal setting process, the City Council has decided to revisit the issue of allowing front porches as a legal encroachment into required front yards (front setback) in Falcon Heights. The existing setback ordinance does not include porches among the allowed encroachments. A number of homeowners have approached the City in recent years, seeking to add porches or porch-like structures to the fronts of their homes, but they were not able to do so unless the structure could be added behind the setback line. Most of the neighborhoods of Falcon Heights were built in an era when front porches were not popular features of home architecture styles, and the homes were built with small entries or stoops right up to the front setback line. The limits on front yard encroachments were probably designed to prevent larger scale encroachment into front yards, preserving the visual open space of the original neighborhood streetscapes. Over the years Falcon Heights residents have shown they value this open character. However, housing styles and family needs change over time. Recognizing that there may be benefits to neighborhoods in giving homeowners more options for the front entries of their houses and for the transitional spaces between public street and private homes, the Council feels it is time to take another look at the issue and has directed staff to open discussion of this subject with the Planning Commission.
Budget Impact	None
Attachment(s)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Falcon Heights City Code, Section 113-241. Required yards and open spaces. • Selection of photos and aerial photos of existing Falcon Heights residential streets.

Action Requested	No formal action is needed at this time. The goal is to initiate discussion of amending Sec. 113-241 to allow more types and sizes of entry spaces at the front of single family homes, including porches. If the Commission's consensus is to move forward, what information, resources and discussions are needed to address this issue? Staff will report back to the Council.
